KLOPPING NAMED DEAN OF MEN

Effective August 28, Dr. Henry Klopping will become Dean of Men and fill the year-long vacancy created by Tom Clayton's retirement.

Dr. Klopping has been director of the Secondary Teacher Preparation for the Hearing Impaired at San Fernando Valley State College, Northridge, California, since June 1971.

Prior to his work at SFVSC, he was acting coordinator of the deaf/blind program and later coordinator of teacher practicum in the area of the deaf at the University of Arizona. He also served as Dean of Boys and Dean of Students at the Arizona State School for Deaf and Blind.

The hearing son of deaf parents, Dr. Klopping recently authored "Language Understanding of Deaf Children Under Three Auditory-Visual Stimulus Conditions," an article which appeared in the June 1972 issue of American Annals of the Deaf.

His professional affiliations include Council for Exceptional Children, Alexander Graham Bell Association, Registry of Interpreters of the Deaf, and the Conference of Executives of American Schools for the Deaf.

NADER'S RAID ON AIDS

According to the Retired Professional Action Group, "Deafness is one of the most expensive physical handicaps a person can face in the U.S. today."

In response to recurring consumer complaints, Ralph Nader's consumer organization, Public Citizen, has recently funded a national study regarding hearing disabilities, which will be coordinated by Mr. Joseph Wiedenmayer.

Several retired professionals and volunteer assistants, composing the Hearing Disability Task Force, will concentrate on uncovering the problems of hearing aid users. Their findings will ultimately be reported to the consumer through a special report prepared by the Retired Professional Action Group.

DR. FINE TO DIRECT STUDENT HEALTH SERVICES

Dr. Peter J. Fine has been named to succeed Dr. Richard H. Todd as director of Student Health Services effective July 9. Dr. Todd, who has directed the College's student health services for 30 years, will work in cooperation with Dr. Fine for three months before officially retiring.

The victim of a recent hearing loss, Dr. Fine has been an instructor in pediatrics at the Albert Einstein College of Medicine since 1967, and has worked jointly in the Departments of Pediatrics, Otorhinolaryngology, Albert Einstein College of Medicine, Jacobi Hospital, Rose F. Kennedy Center.

In addition to his duties as director of Student Health Services, he will lecture in the biology department.

SOME INTERESTING TIDBITS

---The St. Peter Counseling and Vocational Rehabilitation Program in Minnesota has recently hired an interpreter to live at the hospital and participate in the alcoholism treatment program with deaf patients. He will also accompany patients to Alcoholics Anonymous meetings and other groups outside of the hospital. ---Seven students from the American School for the Deaf have been attending classes at Hall High School, one of the two public high schools in West Hartford, Connecticut. Hall High, an open school concept with a modular scheduling system, is able to offer an expanded curriculum to the ASD students and opportunities for socialization with hearing peers. ---Recognizing the 24-hour-a-day learning environment of the deaf child in a residential school, the Office of Education has funded a pilot project developed by the New York University Deafness and Research Training Center entitled, "A Regional Training Program for Professional After-school Staff in Residential Schools for the Deaf."
